Two airline credit cards that can send you where you want to go!

You will want to explore the merits of two excellent airline credit cards : the Jet Blue Card from American Express and the Gold Delta SkyMiles Credit Card.

The Jet Blue Card from American Express offers many benefits attractive to travelers. Unlike some airline credit cards, the points you earn with this credit card will not expire. Your points will remain active for an additional year when you use your credit card or fly on JetBlue. Every dollar you spend using this phenomenal card earns you points that can be redeemed for travel rewards, and some purchases enable you to earn double award dollars that are converted to points. This means that when you use Your Jet Blue Card to eat out or purchase entertainment, leisure items or travel, your card works doubly hard for you, earning you twice as many award dollars as for other purchases. You can earn one round-trip flight when you have reached one hundred points with this fantastic credit card.

Another card that travelers should consider is the Gold Delta SkyMiles Credit Card. You will earn double airline card credit mile rewards when you make purchases at select supermarkets, drugstores, gas stations and others. For all other purchases, you will earn one airline mile for every dollar you spend using your Gold Delta SkyMiles card. The Gold Delta card also gives you an added bonus of 15,000 miles after you make your first purchase using the card.

Every airline card credit mile will quickly add up when you use these two infinitely useful airline credit cards.
