

Artel Glass Candleholder

We are pleased to present The Golden Age of Yachting barware collection from Artel, one of Europe's leading artisan producers of fine crystal. Applying the unbending standards of traditional glassmaking, the intricate and graceful lines of illustrious sailing ships are hand-engraved on each piece of brilliant lead-free, mouth-blown crystal.

From schooners to cutters, The Golden Age of Yachting barware sets feature six Artel different yachts sailing through picturesque seascapes. The complex lines of masts, hulls and billowing sails on these splendid craft are expertly engraved on each piece. The Golden Age of Yachting barware sets make the perfect addition to any traditional or modern home or yacht, and an enthralling, unforgettable gift.

The Artel Candleholder craftsmen had to switch to manufacturing powder-cases, hand glasses, and other objects of everyday life. Broaches with portraits became extremely popular with the bourgeois. To produce the broaches photographs and daguerreotypes were used which had just appeared at that time. After the revolution Rostov's enamel craftsmen organized an artel. In order to improve the quality of production they invited the eminent graphic artist who organized a school attached to the artel.

Products will range from table-ware, furniture, vases, and crystal glasses to soft furnishings and rugs, vintage flower books, gift cards, beauty products, scented candles and tea lights. Brands will include; Anna Torf vases, Artel hand engraved crystal, Amy Cushing glassware, Lucien Pellat-Finet's scented candles, Catherine Memmi beauty products, and 'Wild at Hearts' own scented candles and gift cards.
