

Dress up and Princess Games -- Online Games for Girls

There is nothing that triggers a child's imagination such as a game with possibilities, when it comes to girls there is nothing better than playing dress-up with their dolls and princesses, knowing this information online game designers have come up with many different variations of such activities, these games have been made using technologies which are highly compatible with browsers such as flash.

Dress-up games are very popular amongst girls because they trigger their imagination, unleash their creativity and show them the beauty of combining different pieces of clothing. Through a simple web search typing keywords such as princess girl games we find flash-based games which fit the description we have given, a good example is a dress-up game called Princess Abella.

Princess Abella is a dress-up game which not only shows girls different types of clothing, hair styles and accessories that they can use to dress this princess with the game also shows them how people (specifically princesses) looked like in different centuries for instance, the 12th century princess dress looks very much like address used by Fiona in Shrek while she was in her human form (the first Shrek movie) -- this is also the style featured in Robin Hood movies which showed long-haired maidens, going forward in history we find that the 16th century dress style was completely different and definitely more elegant, it included a lot of jewelry which only royalty would be able to wear during that time, the hairstyle was different from that of the 12th century and require a lot more work.

As time went by the whole structure of principalities came to an end which is why we see the 20th century model of a princess is mixed up with that of play beautiful lady of society, the dresses used back then were quite beautiful and designed to fit the body of these beautiful ladies, the number of accessories also increased and the time spent designing each piece of clothing is very noticeable, beautiful umbrellas and eye-catching hats, a style which comes very close to the one we're trying to describe is the Victorian ladies hat.

Girls games are able to take on a whole new form when they are developed for the web, but dress up and Princess type of games have always been popular and entertaining because it trigger the creativity of young minds, in this case girls.

About the Author

Princessdressup.org provides a great variety of dress up princess games to entertain girls of all ages. Visit our princess games site and have some fun today!

Source: <http://www.articletrader.com>