

New MySpace Tool offers Free Live Support

With the large popularity of a new MySpace tool they have incorporated Free Live support plus a forum where customers can interact with each other. Buddypromoter has had a great response to customer demand and to deal with the increase in its popularity they have incorporated Live chat support for new users as well as for new visitors that may have questions regarding their software suite. Videos of the software in action have also been incorporated showing the software to existing customers as well as to visitors of their sales page.

With MySpace shutting down Badderadder and Spacepromoter as well as several other US based software companies the need for MySpace tools has increased. Some people only need something as simple as a friend adder while others are using MySpace as a way to target market certain segments and need even greater assistance.

One of the softwares affiliate has created a great information book about marketing on MySpace which reveals many ways a user could enhance their profile without this great software. The book is called MySpaceJobKiller and it greatly increases a persons chance of successfully marketing on MySpace whether they choose to use Buddypromoter or not.

A lot of the customers of Buddypromoter have been saying some great things about the software in several online forums. The creators of Buddypromoter have even created their own forum which will allow users to interact with each other. Talks now with the company that created Buddypromoter is possible looking at creating their own MySpace type site. They are also going to be asking customers what other software bots should be created for sites like YouTube, Friendster, and Facebook.

Buddypromoter offers the following features to users of MySpace; Friend adder, commenting, bulletins, messaging, email verifier, account creator, profile grabber, blog poster, email verification, chaining, and new features are being added all the time. One of the great benefits that customers get are free lifetime updates.

Because of the forced closing of Badderadder, spacepromoter, and several other US based MySpace Software addon companies Buddypromoter provides a great suite for Companies who want to take advantage of the great niches that can be found on the site MySpace.
