

Free Online Texting

Admit it! You love sending SMS or texts to your friends but no longer send them as you have to control the cell phone bill. You are desperate to send those funny messages or quotes to your friends and stop yourself then and there as your cell phone service provider charges fees for those texts. Now don't stop yourself anymore from bringing the smiles on your friends faces, just join textforfree.net and see the wonders working for you and that too free of cost. Online texting is simpler with textforfree.net and that is absolutely free of cost. Online texting is hot today. Send as many texts as you want anywhere in the United States on any cell phone and that too 100% free. Send those funny, romantic, cool and sexy texts in a few simple ways.

What you need to do is to visit www.textforfree.net and follow some really simple steps. First step is to enter the receivers cell phone number in the mentioned field. While doing so remember not to use dashes or other characters other than the number and to enter the area code as well. The second step is to enter the subject of the message you want to send. It helps the receiver in identifying the content of the message. The third step is to enter your message you intend to send to the receiver and here you need to remember that the limit of the message is 140 words. So enter the precise message and continue to the final step. The fourth step is to choose the receivers cellular service provider from the given list. And the final step is to click on the send text message button to send the message. Using these simple steps your message is delivered to the person you want to send it to. Isn't it a simple way of sending your message across without you or the receiver paying anything for using the service.

We at textforfree.net insure that by using this service you can cut on the fee you pay your cellular service provider for sending those important as well as cheeky messages to your friends. Not only it's 100% free but we also ensure that you get the service to every corner of the United States and that is why almost every cellular service provider is listed with us. With the quality service we also ensure that your receiver never receives a spam message or advertisement on his number. We respect complete privacy of our users and keep the data secured.

So the next time you use our online texting services be assured that your message will be delivered in no time and as said absolutely free. You can even prank your friends because we offer anonymous text messaging, which means that your friends will never know who sent them the text message! So enjoy sending those texts online using our free online SMS service and bring a smile on many faces.

About the Author

Looking for more information on SMS Messages check out www.textforfree.net your guide to textforfree.net

Source: <http://www.articletrader.com>