

What is the Best Carpet Cleaning Tip?

Where cleaning carpets is concerned, there has to be hundreds of remedies and ways to get rid of odors, stains, grease, shading, carpet stitch damage, dirt and what have you. There are also several known tips that housewives and professional cleaners have come up with in order to replace those "when in doubt, use cleaning solution" remedies. Below are some of those tips and hopefully, from the list, you may be able to determine for yourself which ones work best.

Stains

Spills are usually the most common problem encountered in carpet cleaning. Spills can vary from liquids such as lemonade, tea, coffee, milk, sauces and something worse and more sticky such as honey. The key to cleaning a spill is in keeping it from seeping and settling permanently enough to create a stain onto the carpet. The best way, therefore, is to immediately dab the spill with a dry sponge or wool cloth. Wiping it or scrubbing it will only enforce settling of the spill onto the material.

If you need to use carpet soap on the spill, clean and wash the carpet with water first before applying the detergent on the spill. Another important carpet cleaning tip you need to keep in mind is to dilute cleaning liquids such as vinegar, rubbing alcohol, ammonia in water if you use these to clean carpet spills and stains as these may only ruin and damage the texture and color when used directly.

Cleaning Carpet Odors

Spills and stains can not only ruin carpets, it can also develop bad smells and odor which could be hard to remove. Carpets that have long been kept in cool and damp places and have not been aired out for some time can also develop foul odor.

The best carpet cleaning tip to follow in this case is to wash the carpet in mild detergent with conditioner and to dry out the carpet in the sun for several hours to take out the odor. Make sure, however, to completely dry out the carpet. Dampness in the carpet will only make the odor worse. Carpet freshening sprays can also help get rid of the odor.

Dents

Carpet damage is the last thing you want to encounter. This is especially true if you have furniture on your carpets and you like to move your furniture around a lot as well. You may notice that dents will form where furniture legs used to be. They are flattened areas and it seems that they can't be repaired.

There's no easy way around restoring those dents from the furniture. You may have to steam iron and brush those areas with tough bristles. Make sure that when applying steam to the dented areas, the iron will not touch the carpet. With those tough bristles, you can also brush those dented areas until the carpet fibers are restored to its original condition. However, this may take some time before it is restored especially if the dents have been sitting on your carpet for a long time. For those who would rather pay than do all the work themselves, there are carpet cleaning professionals and repair experts who will gladly do it for you.

About the Author

Having problems with cleaning your carpets? Simply visit Nikki Rowd's website for the best cleaning your carpets tip and for other articles on cleaning your carpets and maintenance. Don't reprint the same version as everyone else. Get your own unique content carpets article here.

Source: <http://www.articletrader.com>