

Unleash The Perfume Secrets.

The word "perfume" is derived from a Latin word "per fume", which means "through smoke". Started during early Christianity, and then revived in the medieval period, fragrance industry has now acquired a huge turnover. Gone are those days when a particular fragrance was treated as a status symbol, perfumes nowadays are required not only for fragrance but to overcome the acrid smell of sweat released by sweat glands.

Perfume is an amalgamation of fragrant essential oils and aroma compounds, fixatives, and solvents. Perfume oil is necessarily diluted with a solvent and essential oils. The dilution is basic part of manufacturing process, as high concentration of volatile components can lead to injury or allergy when applied directly. The most common solvent for perfume oil dilution is ethanol or a mixture of ethanol and water. Nowadays another method of dilution by neutral-smelling lipids such as jojoba, fractionated coconut oil or wax is preferred. After dilution comes the stage of Filtration. It's a process by which undesired particles are removed through processing equipments containing filters.

Perfumes are offered by different brands and comprise of different fragrance based on ingredients, according to the requirement of customers. So whenever you choose the perfume, select according to your skin and odor, only branded and designer perfume. Don't be befooled by the dainty flacon.

Perfumes can be classified according to various ways. Depending upon concentration level of perfume oil, the classification is

With 22% of essential oil, comes the costliest form of fragrance known as PERFUME.

Between 15 and 22% essential oils, comes the category EDP (Eau de Parfum)

With 8 to 15 % essential oils, comes the Eau de Toilette (EDT)

With 4% essential oils, comes Eau de Cologne

With 1 to 3% essential oils, comes the lightest dilution of fragrance known as Eau Fraiche

Perfumes can also be classified according to notes which are gradual evaporation of volatile ingredients.

Top notes are also known as head notes. Usually classified as fresh, assertive and sharp, top notes are responsible for the initial impression of the scent. They are the small, light molecules that are highly volatile in nature and are perceived immediately on application.

Middle notes: The middle notes come into action when the top note dissipates. Also known as heart notes, lavender and rose scents are its typical example. They form the main body of perfume and lasts from 2 minutes to one hour after the application of the perfume.

Base notes: Responsible for the depth and solidity to the perfume, base notes, arrives after the departure of middle notes. The layer comprises of heavy molecules that are not much volatile and prior function is to boost the strength of upper notes.
