

Paying for Rhinoplasty and Getting the Nose You Want

Your eyes and bright smile may be what charm people, but your nose is the central feature of your face that shapes your appearance. Most people are content with their noses, more or less, but other people are dissatisfied with their noses. The shape may bother them or they think that it is too large. If you are in this discontented group, you may be a candidate for rhinoplasty, a plastic surgery that reshapes your nose.

However, even if you live under a rock, you are aware that the cost of medical services easily runs into the thousands of dollars. But this is not an insurmountable barrier to your wish for rhinoplasty. Do not write off the possibility of Beverly Hills rhinoplasty. You do have options for paying for this surgery.

The most obvious method of playing for rhinoplasty is to save your money and pay for it. You could consult with a plastic surgeon and find out what your surgery would cost and then start saving. This approach can reduce your unhappiness with your current nose because you are working toward your self improvement goal. You are taking care of the problem. Another advantage is that once you have the surgery, you will simply pay for it. No hassles with insurance companies. No debt. You have simply earned what you wanted. The disadvantage, of course, is that saving money takes time.

Financing Your Rhinoplasty

Another option that you may not realize is available is financing your rhinoplasty and paying for it with installment payments after your surgery. Just like when you remodel your kitchen or buy a car, rhinoplasty can be financed as a major purchase. Plastic surgery practices often can aid you in setting up financing. The attractive advantage with this payment option is its immediacy. You can change the appearance of your nose, and then pay for the procedure.

Your Insurance Might Pay for Rhinoplasty

You might think that Beverly Hills plastic surgery is universally excluded from all medical insurance coverage, but some policies will cover rhinoplasty in limited situations. If you have breathing problems caused by septal deviation, birth defects, or an injury to your nose, check your policy to see if it will cover corrective nose surgery. Because rhinoplasty in such a situation will be delivering medical benefit, such as to alleviate breathing problems, it is not automatically rejected as a purely cosmetic elective surgery. Not every insurance policy will have these allowances, but it is important that you check with your insurance provider because it could be a source of funds for your surgery.

If you are unhappy with the appearance of your nose or have breathing problems, know that rhinoplasty is a commonly performed plastic surgery that offers many people pleasing results. Payment options are available if you wish to pursue your self improvement goals. You do not have to dismiss nose surgery as a fanciful notion.
