

Online Games: Casinos for Americans

Foreword

Online gaming received a serious blow when the American Federal government passed the Ports Law banning any financial institution from sending or receiving money to and from any company that is related to online betting. But, as expected, only scared away the big companies such as PlayTech. Smaller ones either kept on operating or opened new companies with new names. Here is a list of some of bigger names still accepting players from the USA.

So how can one locate safe and secure casinos since so many sprouted up like mushrooms after the rains? Below, I will list some of the more secure gaming house where you can play relatively without any fear if you reside in the United States.

How?

By creating new names, these casinos are able to bypass the gambling law, and you can even use your Visa or MasterCard to play. Other than these, there are some online payment options such as MoneyBrokers and Neteller through which you can deposit and eventually withdraw money from your casino account.

Why Should I Care?

When one of us want to play one of the many casino games online especially if we are living in the United States, then, we are faced with a federal ban. Should we just stop? Legally, yes. But, let us face it. Those who want to will, and for such people (you, if you are one.) relatively safe paths have been created for managing such accounts and online gaming relationships.

Casinos that Allow American Players to Take Part

1) ClubUSA Casino:

By offering software created and professionally managed by Real Time Gaming, one of the most trusted names in the gaming software industry, this online casino uses Wire Card to conduct all its online banking transactions with you. They also offer a nice and hefty seven hundred and fifty dollars free for playing.

2) Roxy Palace uses software developed and managed by the reliable software company, MicroGaming. Specific intrinsic details have been graphically enhanced and particular casino sounds have been added. This ensures your online experience is as similar to going to a land casino as is virtually possible. Their customer service is fast and friendly as well.

3) Golden Casino:

Rumored to be an outlet of Golden Palace, this online casino recently changed its software, and also boasts a new variety of online games for every taste. Other than the five hundred and fifty dollars that it hands out as its bonus prize, this online casino is rare in that its game-display is simple, but the variety of games incredibly vast and varied.

4) Crystal Palace:

With a platform that is as clear as crystal, this online gaming entity boasts an extra-safe 128-coding system that is far superior to those offered by most of the other online casinos. The variety of games is just about average and the download speed is quite quick, but these are not what make this casino attractive. For those looking for a super-secure playing environment, pick it. If not, I suggest you opt for one of the other casinos.

5) Royal Vegas Casino:

As a member of the Fortune Lounge and part of the Fortune Affiliate group, a widely and well-established affiliate company, this casino not only uses MicroGaming software but MicroGaming assists them in the day-to-day running too. This guarantees that all transactions are securely encrypted and taken care off.

Conclusion:

Although one can find quite a few online casinos that still cater to the American crowd, and although I have listed but five of these, do not understand that I am recommending these in any way. While trust and professionalism is subjective, I recommend you think very carefully if you want to risk going against federal statute and break federal law.

About the Author

Jack Reider is the home writer for <http://www.gambling-portal.com> where he inquires about the different casinos that accept US players as well as poker rooms that do the same.

