

A bigger base or a bigger head ?

Many people sustain that size is important but is it really? It is confirmed that some women get excited by large penises. That is the reason for some men to search for methods and means to get their penis bigger. This "issue" popular to men has determined the development of male enhancement products or paraphernalia.

Male enlargement products are having a strong impact in the industry. Men are frequently using these products because they are interested in offering pleasure to their partners in bed.

Other men buy this to encourage their self-esteem because they have small penis size. No matter the reason for buying the product, it all relates to one problem—pleasure. It's all referring to either offering pleasure to their partners or bringing up their egos, it may be the same thing. The real issue at the end is one's happiness.

These male enlargement products claim to make a man's penis bigger. There are various ways that can enlarge penis size. A man can practice some sport, have some pills or make use of sex toys. Several products determine different reactions related to sexual satisfaction.

Still there are women who would prefer for their men to have moderate sized organs. You are wondering what is the reason for this? The answer is simple: a large penis can provoke them pain. This mostly happens the moment have any idea about how to treat his partner with care. He straightly goes "wham-bam-slam" and that is all. This type of men should stop for awhile and get informed about how a woman can be pleased, before taking action.

In a discussion which relates to a sexual topic, it is likely that the occurrence of a penis will be brought up. But the question is: what is more interesting, a bigger head or a bigger penile base? Many people, if not all, would surely answer that a bigger head is more important. This affirmation may be true and false in the same time. The essential thing is that both, men and women should experience pleasure.

However, most women will answer that a bigger base is more important than a bigger head. It is true that a penis with a larger head may appear really nice to look at, but a penis with a larger base offers more pleasure when getting it on. Why is that? This happens because a woman's essential sensitive sexual organ is the clitoris. The top of the penis cannot brush the clitoris the moment the penis gets inside. That is why the base will play the role of satisfying a woman. A larger penile base will surely stimulate the clitoris when the man is making love to his partner. The continual friction between the penile base and the clitoris will definitely offer extraordinary sensations for the woman.

Moreover, there are moments that some couples cannot entirely "fit". A penis may seem to be too little for a woman's vagina, whereas, a big penis might not manage to get inside it. Still, this should not break their pleasure. The couple should leave their emerging juices flow. A good option is for them to try different positions to discover what sexual position is most suitable for them.
