

3 Hour Natural Cure For Cracked Corners of The Mouth

Cracked corners of the mouth, also known as Angular Cheilitis, Perleche, or Stomitis is an embarrassing, painful fungal bacterial infection occurring in the corners of the mouth. The corners of the mouth ulcerate painfully with crusty red areas. The lesions look a little like infected paper cuts. The condition occurs more frequently in cold weather although some folks have the irritating condition year around.

The lesions are not contagious or dangerous, but they are quite painful to the point of making it difficult to eat or laugh or even talk.

While the symptoms of cracked corners of the mouth are quite debilitating physically, they wreck havoc with the sufferer's social life. Everyone will agree that your face is the most important part of your appearance. Chronic sufferers become withdrawn and quiet. They are called all kinds of names like "aids kid", or "syphilis face". No one wants to even hold hands with a chronic sufferer much less kiss him. There is a sickening stigma associated with the symptoms.

Complete strangers stare and make ignorant assumptions about you when you have the red crusty splits in the corners of your mouth. Yes, the condition is physically painful, but the embarrassment is even more painful.

The most common yet useless way most Doctors treat cracked corners of the mouth is to prescribe 1% hydro cortisone cream. This cream is a greasy topical cream and when you apply it to the corners of the mouth you spend your time trying not to eat it.

Now you can have the power to naturally control the symptoms of Angular Cheilitis right in your own home or even from your bathroom at work. It's been discovered that fungal bacteria, the bacteria that cause cracked corners of the mouth cannot live without moisture. So, get rid of the moisture and you will get rid of the fungal bacteria which cause the nasty, red, crusty splits in the corners of the mouth.

Sounds simple and so it is. The treatment is guaranteed to work for everyone. This insidious affliction can be a thing of the past in 3 short hours using a few simple ingredients found in most bathrooms or kitchens.
