

Look Your Best In Silk Scarves

Your mom's clothes shouldn't be given to Goodwill until you've seen if they might contain oversized silk scarves, which have become fashionable once more. They remind people of the high fashion of the 1950s and icons such as Jackie Kennedy and Grace Kelly. Even if you don't have a convertible to drive around in to show them off, they will definitely add color and style to your wardrobe.

2008 is the year of the scarf! Light, flowing, airy material that can be tied tightly like it is winter, or in practically any direction that suits your fancy. The whole idea is to be creative by draping both ends of the scarf around the neck, or creating a masterpiece of your own. It is a wonderful way to wear your own personalized fashion statement, and use it as a way of self expression while having fun and looking great.

Scarves are attractive accessories twenty four hours a day. Whenever you look at photos of the rich and famous, they have a different scarf to accompany every possible outfit. Here's a great tip, remember to keep your scarf and your outfit in synch. If your clothes are busy or loud, go with a plain or solid scarf. This will keep everything in line. For me, a scarf is the perfect accessory for all the clothes in my wardrobe. No matter what part of your body is giving you trouble on the day, a scarf can keep it in line.

The cost of a scarf varies a great deal. However, a well-made scarf does cost. You pay for the quality of fabric and craftsmanship as well as elegant patterns. Names well known for the high quality of scarf produced are Hermes and Chanel. These famous brands have many classic designs. Bluefly.com and Shopbop.com carry a large selection if you want to shop at home. Sometimes, if you are really savvy, you may be fortunate enough to find a vintage Chanel or Hermes piece. Just remember, you will get what you pay for.

Me, I'll be hitting up my mom's accessory drawer to see if I can strike gold. Who knew that those flamboyant scarves that my mother paid so much for years ago would turn out to be so valuable today? Thank goodness that fashion is cyclical.
